Postmaster General To Visit College

STUFF

Vol. 22 St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Indiana, October 23, 1958 No. 3

Arthur Summerfield To Dedicate St. Joseph's New Post Office

by Ed McGee

The Honorable Arthur E. Summerfield, Postmaster General of the United States, will make an unprecedented visit to St. Joseph's, Thursday, Oct. 30. This will be the first time any member of the Cabinet has visited the campus.

This visit will be highlighted by the dedication of the newly remodeled post office at Collegeville. The Honorable Charles A. Halleck, Congressman from Rensselaer and member of the college Board of Lay Trustees, will accompany Postmaster Summerfield. Also present for the dedication ceremonies will be Wendell R. Martin, Rensselaer Postmaster, and many of the postmasters from surrounding areas.

Arrival At 4 P.M.

A tour of the college is being planned for the visitors. Immediately following the dedication the Honorable Mr. Summerfield will have a few short words of encouragement for all students present at the ceremonies.

Fr. John Lefko, treasurer of the college, is chairman of a special faculty arrangements committee appointed by Fr. Raphael H. Gross. A reception is being planned for the Postmaster General and the Honorable Congressman and those postmasters present. The festivities should begin at 4:00, when Mr. Summerfield is expected to arrive.

Postmaster General Since 1953

Upon completion of the events scheduled at Collegeville the Honorable Messrs. Summerfield and Halleck will attend a Republican rally in Rensselaer.

The Postmaster General was born in Pinconning, Mich. and educated in Bay City and Flint. He has been in real estate business and was an oil distributor. He was also very active as an automobile dealer. From 1944 to 1953 he was a member of the Republican National Committee, serving as chairman for six months at the early stage of President Eisenhower's nomination and election.

Mr. Summerfield was nominated by President Eisenhower to be Postmaster General of the United States. He was administered the oath of this office as the 54th Postmaster General on January 21, 1953.

Free Day On Oct. 30

The Honorable Charles A. Halleck, the person responsible for arranging Mr. Summerfield's visit, is a close personal friend of the Postmaster. The House Majority Leader of the 83rd Republican Congress was a very valuable leader in Mr. Eisenhower's first campaign, which began in Indianapolis. Rep. Halleck has been in the House since 1935 and has served on most of the important committees.

In honor of this special event Fr. Ralphael H. Gross, president of the college has granted Friday, Oct. 31, as a free day.

Postmaster Summerfield

Dr. C. Joseph Nuesse To Give 2nd Lecture in SJ Series

by Ron Metter

Dr. C. Joseph Nuesse, dean of the School of Social Science at Catholic university of America, will give the second lecture of the current series on Monday, Oct. 27. His topic will be "Social Mobility and Religion in American Society."

Dr. Nuesse, who received a B.A. degree from Central State Teacher's college, Stevens Point, Wis., in 1934, earned a M.A. degree at Northwestern university in 1937 and then continued as a Knight of Columbus Fellow at Catholic university, where he received a Ph.D. in 1944.

Studies Parish Life

He taught sociology at the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, Minn., and at Marquette university before joining the faculty at Catholic university in 1945. He was appointed associate professor and dean of the School of Social Science in 1952.

The author of "The Social Thought of American Catholics, 1634-1829," published in 1945, and a contributor to "The Sociology of the Parish" (1951), Dr. Nuesse has also published a number of articles in various sociological and educational journals.

Holds Public Posts

He is presently a member of the governing board, UNESCO Institute for Youth; the advisory council, Institute for Criminological Research of the District of Columbia; and the District of Columbia Commissioners' Council on Human Relations. Dr. Nuesse is also a past president of the American Catholic Sociological Society and the Catholic Association for International Peace.

Dr. Nuesse has also held other important public posts. He was an observer in the U.S. delegation to the Sixth General Conference of UNESCO in Paris in 1951; a member of the U.S. delegation to the Study Conference of the Atlantic Treaty Association in Paris in 1956, and a member of the U.S. delegation to the Inter-American Seminar on Education of the Organization of American States in Washington, D.C. this past summer.

Wider Appeal

The lecture will begin at 8 p.m. in Merlini Lounge. According to Mr. James T. Farrell, assistant professor of English and director of the lecture series, there will be two or three more lectures in this series. The exact dates and the respective speakers for the following lectures are tentative.

It may also be said that compared with the first lecture, this talk by Dr. Nuesse should prove to be much broader in scope and less specialized. It should, therefore, appeal to the majority of the student body.

Dr. C. Joseph Nuesse

To: The Student Council and Senior Class

Today I received the following kind letter from the President of Saint Joseph's college, the Very Rev. Raphael H. Gross, C.PP.S.:

'Just a note—one that you can pass on to the students concerned—to say that I personally want to thank and to congratulate the Student Council and the Senior Class for the splendid cooperation they gave in making the Alumni Homecoming day the best ever. In particular, the decoration of Raleigh Hall was in very good taste. All those who helped to achieve this success deserve full commendation.

(Signed):
Fr. Gross."

The enthusiastic support and cooperation, the basis of all real "school spirit," given by all classes, halls, and clubs for this Homecoming weekend will, I am sure, stand as an incentive and model for the Towers Dance on Nov. 1.

Fr. D. F. Shea, C.PP.S.
Coordinator of Student Affairs

Fire Claims Stake Barn

Clouds of smoke bellowed skyward as a stake barn on the St. Joe dairy farm burned to the ground while homecoming activities were in full gear last Saturday, Oct. 18.

Before the blaze could be put out, 10,500 bales of hay and 7,000 bales of straw were completely destroyed, along with the barn. A stake barn is a large open crib consisting of a roof supported by stakes or poles and is mainly used for storage. St. Joe's barn was 120 feet long and 55 feet wide.

Cause of Fire Unknown

Beginning around 1:00 p.m., volunteer firemen from Rensselaer, along with persons from the surrounding community and the college, worked on the fire until

(Continued on page 6)

For more than 12 hours a fire raged in a stake barn on the southwest end of the campus last Saturday, Oct. 18. The fire, which started at 1:00 p.m., consumed more than 7000 bales of straw and 10,500 bales of hay. The cause of the fire was unknown.

FSEE Exam Helpful in Finding Jobs

Mr. Richard Scharf, director of the placement bureau, has just received the Government's new Federal Service Entrance Examination—called, in short, the "FSEE." The FSEE will find positions in more than 60 career fields. In Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia 541 positions are expected to be filled from this one exam.

Salaries start at a range of $4,040 to $4,980 a year. Some management interns may start at $5,98.5

Consider FSEE Now

The first test is on Saturday, Nov. 15, but applications must be filed by Oct. 30. Applications are available in Mr. Scharf's office or at the post office. All applications should be filled out and mailed to: Director, Sixth U.S. Civil Service

(Continued on page 4)

CP's Get Ready For "Court Martial"

The Columbian Players of St. Joseph's college will offer their presentation of the "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" on Sunday and Monday evenings, Nov. 16 and 17.

Heading the cast are Leon Brady as Lt. Com. Philip Queeg, Dennis Fus as Lt. Barney Greenwald and Lawrence McKay as Lt. Stephen Maryk.

Others in the cast are Robert Lippe, Thomas Carpenter, Edward Corbett, William Malis, Glenn Ilges, Thomas Schoenbaum, John Castulik, Michael Adzima, John Lulewicz, Fred Everding, John Christianson, Thomas McAdams, Henry Pictor and James Sullivan.

The play is under the direction of Mr. Willard Walsh.

Senior Norm Lozen Earns 'Man of the Month' Award

Norm Lozen was chosen at St. Joseph's Man of the Month for October by an appointed committee of representatives of the student body at the committee's first meeting Oct. 14.

Beginning this month and continuing each month of the school year, a man of the month will be selected who in the estimation of the committee deserves, on the basis of his contributions to the welfare of the student body, such recognition. The man selected each month will be featured in Stuff.

One Semester at St. Joe

Winners are being chosen by a committee of five, which is made up of inter-hall committee chairman John Murray, senior class president Joe Gurgone, junior class president Maurice O'Connor, sophomore class president Larry Kelly and the freshman class president when elected. Until the freshman elections take place, Jerry Mauch, associate editor of Stuff, is serving on the committee.

Committee members are entitled to one nomination each month and are not restricted to nominating those in their own class. Students nominated must have been at St. Joe for at least one semester.

Lozen was selected by the committee as the first Man of the month because of his "outstanding work 'beyond the call of duty' as Dance committee co-chairman and his extraordinary work in instilling school spirit into the student body at games and pep rallies.

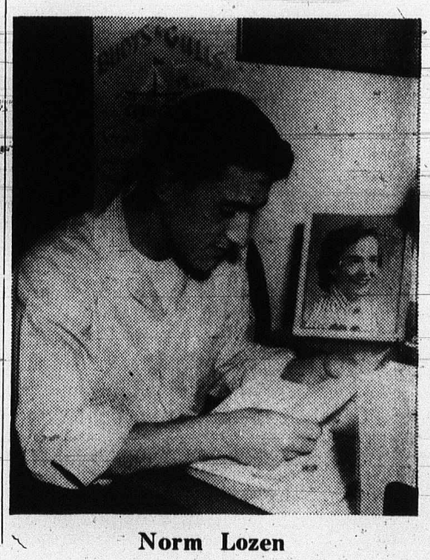
Majoring in education and minoring in Geology, Lozen is a member of the geology club and the Motor City club, along with his Dance committee co-chairmanship, which qualifies him as a member of the Student Council.

Lozen a Wolverine

During his junior year he belonged to the Geology club, was a member of the Dance committee, and was the founding president of the Motor City club. In his sophomore year he was a member of the Glee club and the Geology club.

Lozen lives in Mount Clemens, Mich., where he attended St. Mary's high school. At St. Mary's he played varsity football and was treasurer of his senior class.

After graduation this June Lozan hopes to teach general science at his home town high school and also to work for his Master's degree in education.



Norm Lozen

Ground Rules For Club News

In an effort to achieve balance, continuity and more student interest, this year's Stuff has been trying to categorize some of the regular features on specific pages each issue so that a student can readily turn to a column of particular interest.

One such column is the one devoted to club news. This feature, which was popular in the editions of Stuff of past years under the heading of "Club Clock," was reestablished this year with the express purpose of publicizing club news and activities as an integral part of campus life.

At the beginning of the year each club was asked to appoint a publicity man, which the majority of clubs have done, to relay news of club activities to the editor of Stuff.

This procedure has worked out very successfully so far, except for the present criticism of club publicity men that too much of their releases are either cut or changed.

When the idea of club publicity men was put into effect, the intention was not necessarily to have them formulate their own stories but to inform Stuff of club activities.

Space limitation due primarily to the rather uncertain and inflexible position of advertising has forced the previous deletions or changes in the information received from club publicity men.

Stuff is regretful that these actions were necessary.

In the future in order to avoid any unpleasant circumstances that may arise, club publicity men are asked to inform Stuff in writing of club activities and let the Stuff staff write the story in final form since they are familiar with the style and space requirements of the publication.

However, if any club or person submitting news is reluctant to have his story cut or changed, he should indicate same on the copy and Stuff will run the story as he desires complete with a by-line.

Nevertheless, the former is more preferable in the interest of readability and conservation of space.

Pope Pius - - - - A Modern Saint

The following article was submitted by a member of the freshman class, who prefers to remain anonymous. The article was written on the occasion of the death of Pope Pius XII and no doubt expresses the sentiments of Catholics throughout the world.

At this time tears of great sorrow, yet tears of great joy come to my eyes. For today, Oct. 8, 1958, the world has lost a living saint. To some he was just another man; but to Christians the world over, Pope Pius XII was a Gibraltar—a man of outstanding piety.

He was a model for all men. His Holiness showed the world that there is more to living than just physical happiness. He showed that with prayer and sacrifice one can find even greater happiness.

For there is a feeling of accomplishment, not in helping oneself, but in aiding your fellow man in the name of God.

The Pontiff tried to show all nations that war was a hindrance to the life on an individual and even to the world. For he knew that peace of mind lay not in the victory of war, but in brotherly love the world over.

To this man the world owes much. Pius XII showed the world unusual wisdom, not in extremes, but in simplicities. The world owes more to his Holiness than it can hope to repay in a 1000 years.

The world looked to him for guidance, and in him the world found what it longed for. Thus Pope Pius XII deserves the title, "Pope of Peace," for peace was his constant aim.

Pope Pius XII hoped for peace in this world but could not gain it; now he has peace, and with this peace he accomplished his mission.

Stuff Welcomes Your Letters

In the first three issues thus far this year Stuff has received five letters from students and one from a faculty member. This response has been, pleasantly enough, above par for the course.

Letters form the backbone of a good editorial page and the more that a paper has—the more good, analytical, constructive ones it has—the better its editorial page will be.

Anybody in Collegeville may write a letter to the editor on any subject of current interest to Stuff's reading public, be it criticism or praise.

In regard to letters, however, Stuff has certain limitations and policies which it follows strictly. These are few and are similar to those of commercial dailies.

The first requisite is that all letters received by the editor be signed, either by an individual or a specific group. No unsigned letters will be published, except in those cases where the editor deems permissable. Letters will be published anonymously or with initials only upon request; otherwise, full identification will be published.

Secondly, all letters must be in good taste. No letters which evince unwarranted or unconstructive criticism of any individual, group or policy of the school will be accepted.

These few letter-to-the-editor restrictions are necessary, and yet leave much room for comment and constructive criticism. So keep them coming.

All Neurotics - - Please Note

Between 20 and 30 per cent of us are neurotic.

That's the estimate given by a psychotherapist in the November Catholic Digest.

Albert Ellis writes that while almost everyone has some neurotic traits, up to 30 per cent of the population "sooner or later get into the difficulty of their own making."

One can usually recognize a neurotic by his self-defeating traits, he says in an article, "How to Get Along with a Neurotic." These traits are unreasonable and affect the neurotic often.

What actions should govern the friends or housemates of neurotics?

"You can love them, leave them or get along with them."

His formula for getting along necessitates a realization that the neurotic's undersirable traits are, after all a problem. Better to accept him as he is than blame him for his annoying behavior.

Catholic Digest—November

. . . Or, Puma On a Hot Tin Barn

Dear Editor,

The frosh of Drexel hall put up a fine Homecoming display and certainly deserved the award they received, but I think that some sort of special recognition should be given to the person(s) responsible for the other magnificent display on the southwest fringe of the campus last Saturday. It was the highlight of the entire weekend.

Other colleges pride themselves on their massive Homecoming bonfires, but I wager that none of them ever used a barn for fuel. The fire was very well timed, too. While it burned through the afternoon, the Pumas were playing red-hot football against Indiana State, and while it lit up the night sky, the seniors and alumni were lit up over in the Rec hall.

I realize that this letter may enflame some people and start heated controversy, but any original idea usually lets itself in for a kick in the ashes, anyway.

Sincerely,
Mrs. H. O'Leary
Milk Maid, Chicago, Ill.

What Do You Think?

by Jim St. Amour

This semester much talk has been going around about the lack of school spirit on campus. What is your idea of school spirit and how can it be cultivated here at St. Joe's?

Art Kurek, senior, Hamilton, Ont.

If I may be so bold I would like to say that spirit is akin to religion in the respect that the obligation cannot be fulfilled on a single day but must be a constant practice. It must be continually vibrant and fervent. Spirit has a certain element of emotion, and emotion is stimulated by activity.

Just as a football team cannot get into condition the day before the game, neither can a cheering team. Spirit is everyone's duty. So before you attempt to cast the blame in someone else's backyard, residents of St. Joseph's college, look in the mirror.

Richard Tenfelde, freshman, Chicago, Ill.

School spirit is the participation of the students in all aspects of college life: religious activities, studies, sports, intramurals, and many little things too numerous to mention. I am sure that everyone has felt the spontaneous spirit during a football or basketball game, but how many of us have spirit to study.

School spirit is contagious; when one person gets it he passes it on to the next. Getting everyone interested in some extracurricular activity would get things started. After this, the spirit will build itself. When all students participate and are enthusiastic about school activities, school spirit will be at its highest point.

Jon Dudeck, sophomore, South Bend, Ind.

School spirit is enthusiastic loyalty of the student body as a whole in athletics and social affairs alike. School spirit does not exist unless there is full cooperation of the student body. Most of our students are full of ideas on improving life here at St. Joe, but most of their ideas are soon forgotten and lost.

The Student Council is working to improve our college life, and we can show our spirit by giving our suggestions to the council representatives. We must, in turn, then support the council in its endeavors by attending the social activities which they sponsor.

John Gier, freshman, Chicago, Ill.

School spirit is actually the backbone of all activities. We have to take a real interest in what we do in order to do the job well.

I think that it is the duty of the upperclassmen to instill in the hearts of the frosh the spirit that makes St. Joe indestructable. From what I have seen thus far, the opposite holds true.

It seems to be that the freshmen carry the weight of school spirit on their shoulders. A good example of this is the pep rallies St. Joe has before football games. The frosh turn out in a body, while only a handful of upperclassmen show up.

In order to be a truly great school, we must organize a united plan of attack and dive into it wholeheartedly.

Ted Bendis, junior, Whiting, Ind.

The most obvious idea of school spirit is the yelling and cheering at an athletic event. This is all well and good, but I think it should extend into the classroom, Rec hall, our residence halls and even our home towns. School spirit should be this: When a student is talking to someone about his school he feels a sense of pride.

As for cultivating more spirit into the students here at St. Joe's, I think he should be made to feel not only as a student but as a member of a community. How this can be done I don't know.

Dan Gehring, freshman, North Judson, Ind.

School spirit is the attitude that the faculty and student body has toward the school. Good school spirit is that of being loyal, having respect, and showing enthusiasm whether it be in the classroom, at a football game or anywhere away from school.

I think the faculty and student body needs more activities that would allow them to get acquainted with each other in an informal way. This will help them to act together as a group. The coffee hour is a good example of this.

Ray Trapp, freshman, Chicago, Ill.

School spirit is a feeling of loyalty to one's school. It's the promoting of the activities of the school, the desire to uphold the school's fine record and high standing—a special pride in what you represent.

A good way to get the ball rolling here at St. Joe would be to have hall pep rallies. By this I mean, one student residence hall would be responsible for the pep rally of a certain game. They would run the whole show, trying to produce a competitive atmosphere which would take fire to the rest of the student body.

For the best spirit shown special recognition would be given. By doing this, the students themselves would have more of a chance to show loyalty to their school by direct participation in leading the rest of the student body.

Reviews At Random

by Charles Faucher

It is striking how the beauty of a work of art can be marred by the material used in its molding. For example—an execution in clay. The artist with flawless and beautiful technique, no matter how much his hands shape and texture, will never rise above the quality of the earth that he utilizes.

There is possibly a duality here, though; the work of art itself, its physical semblance, and the spirit of the artist is its every line and curve.

But time will decay the entire work, and nothing but the cracked clay and humped features will remain; nothing to give testimony to the cry of the artist, the part of him he so patiently embued his creation with. The entire construction will eventually rubble.

This rather extended metaphor could be applicable to the Nun's Story of Kathryn Hulme. Of its beauty of expression, of its portrayal of the dregs of anguish, dis-illusionment, of spiraling hope and joy, there can be little doubt.

The manner in which Miss Hulme wields her verbal brush; the glaring reds of hate, the gentle blues of melancholy, the yellows and browns of all that is base, the white and the black of Sister Luke, blend, and create an impression of beauty terrible almost to the point of physical pain. No, of the artistic merits of this book there can be no argument.

These characteristics give the book its original appeal; the accidentals are impecable. And they might possibly give the book enough that on these it might stand.

But beneath this wondrous sheen a subtle beast stirs.

Miss Hulme creates in the person of Sister Luke a nun who cannot reconcile herself to the will of God in submitting to the hairshirt-Rule of her order, and eventually because she cannot conform, leaves the society, a prodigal.

This is rather an unfleshy skeleton of a book of some three-hundred pages, and perhaps unwholesome in that it leaves out many mollifying circumstances. But the beast is still there.

It relates the story of a girl passing to womanhood; constantly chaffing under the wool of her habit, as a cloak that must be worn, as a locusted and honeyed thing not to be used as an instrument to work through, but as an obstacle to be put up with and somehow maneuvered around. Of negating the mantle of God's Providence and replacing it with the shabby garment of human fallibility. Of equivocating with the Maker in regard to her vows, "I cannot promise You until death . . . but I shall try . . .".

These two spheres constitute the duality of the story. The flawless technique and the grinning beast.

Perhaps with time the former will become humped and cracked by the latter, the ugliness of the substance will betray the accidental edifice; the beauty will lay about in fragments and the beast will laugh.

For one cannot help but recall the words of the Gospel-God in answer to spirits such as these," Go, sell what thou hast . . .".

STUFF

Published bi-weekly during the school year, except during the calendar holidays of Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and mid-year examinations by students of St. Joseph's College. Entered as second class matter Sept. 20, 1937, at the Post Office in Collegeville, Ind., under Act of March 3, 1879. Subscription $1.00.

Member
Associated Collegiate Press
Catholic School Press Asso.

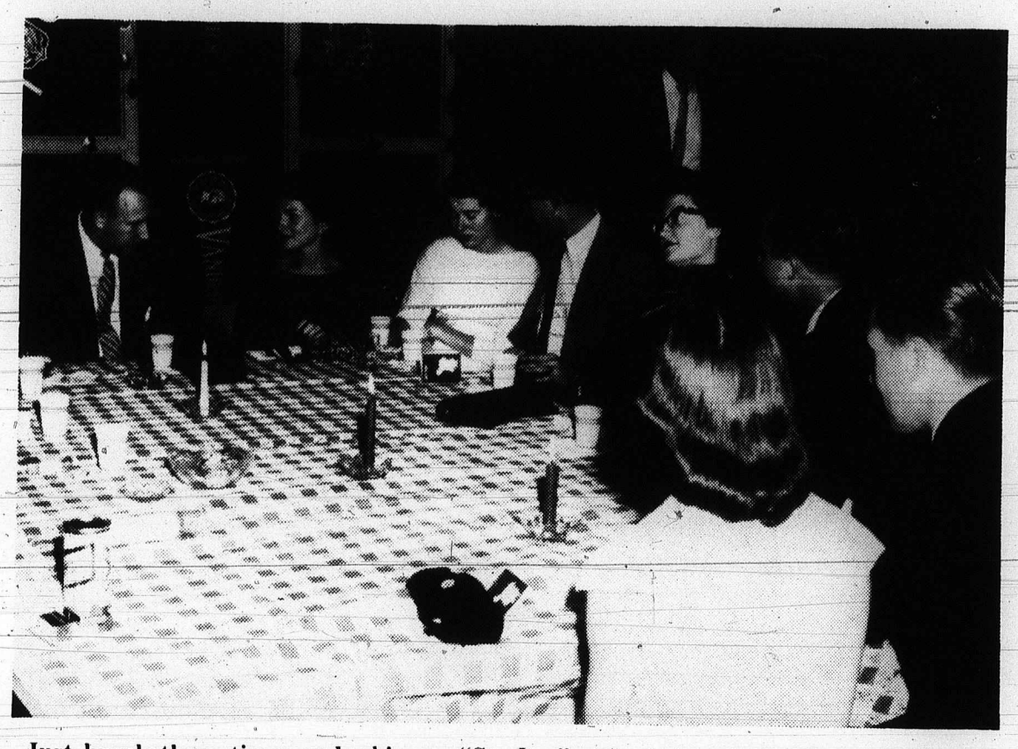
STAFF

Editor—Jerry Bosch
Associate Editor—Jerry Mauch
Copy Editor—Greg Mahoney
Business Manager—Wally Rossmanith
Photographers—Tony Tumbarello, Bob Klein, Al Colby
Feature Writers—Jim St. Amour, Pat Lavery, Tom Page, Jim McCullough, Tim Sullivan
Sports Writers—Tom Donahue, Mike Goldrick, Jim Quinn
Reporters—Jim. Drennan, Rich Lazarski, Ed McGee, Ron Metter, Don Moll, Jim Moyer, Bob Rospenda, Ed Schlaffke
Faculty Adviser—Mr. Hugh P. Cowdin

Highlights of 1958 St. Joe Homecoming

The commuting students of Drexel proved that distance doesn't mar excellence when their Homecoming display was adjudged the best of all the halls participating. It was worth the long trip to see.

"Oh, good grief! That Puma has got me treed and even my blanket isn't consolation for the way St. Joe blanketed us 44-0," moans losing Linus in Xavier hall's second place display. Xavier took top prize last year.



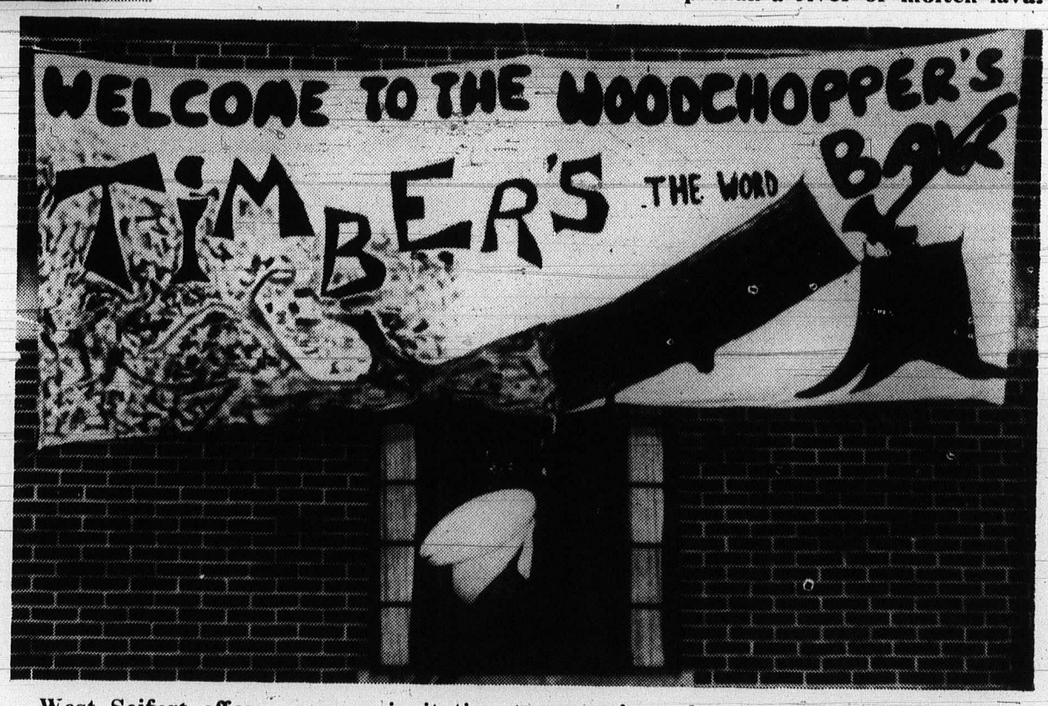
Just knock three times and whisper, "St. Joe," and you're admitted to a dark corner in "Joe's Place" (formerly Raleigh hall). Candlelight adds to the enchantment of the evening.

Look Ma, no ID card! What's the skinny with all those beer cans? Don't Bob Findling, Don Disbrow, Mike Fontanetta and their dates realize that they'll need clear heads for their classes on Monday.

Paul King and his swingin' Kingtet were the featured band at "Joe's Place" last Saturday night. The "beat generation" of St. Joseph's found the combo and their vivacious vocalist "Cookie" a welcome addition to the atmosphere of "Joe's Place."

The last days of Pompeii? No, just the last hours of Indiana State as Merlini's Homecoming volcano erupts and coughs up scorched Sycamores. Those Pumas were harder to stop than a river of molten lava.

East Siefert pays homage to the 11 valiant souls who met a horrible end at the hands of Bob Jauron's murder squad. Like sheep led to a slaughter, they entered the Puma Bowl, hail and hearty, and left mangled and maimed. Abandon hope all ye foes who enter here!



West Seifert offers an open invitation to come in and enjoy the funeral party of Indiana State. There was dancing in the aisles and singing in the stands as the Pumas were the belles of the ball.

On The Campus

Men and Issues

by Pat Lavery & Tom Page

Question: Father, how long have you been connected with St. Joseph's college and what positions have you held?

Fr. Otte: In 1942 I came to St. Joseph's college. Since then I have served as Treasurer and accounting professor.

Question: Have there been many changes during this time?

Fr. Otte: Any resemblance between St. Joseph's college of today and St. Joseph's college of 1946 is purely coincidental (St. Joe was primarily a high school during the war). There have been changes in the buildings, faculty and unfortunately in the student.

Question: What has been the change in the student?

Fr. Otte: Students now have lots of money and act accordingly. The students we had here from 1946-50 were mainly veterans. They had grown up during a depression and they had fought in a war. Naturally they had a more determined outlook on life. For the most part they were better students. They were mentally alert.

This positive attitude not only effected their studies but it branched out into all fields. There was more interest in campus clubs, activities, sports, etc. As a group these men were well-rounded students.

Question: What in your opinion is the cause of the change?

Fr. Otte: The students of today are spoiled. They are not interested in school as such. They complain about current conditions but do nothing about trying to change these conditions. They have no ideas. They have had it too soft and hence they are not doing the work they are capable of.

For example take this article for a magazine called "Think," written by Nobel prize winning scientist Dr. Seaborg concerning his success. Quote, "Hard work, I mean it, often I worked through the night. My success was the result of application and of working a little harder than the others—of sticking to a problem until it is solved."

Hard work is lacking around St. Joe. The college has an unique spot in education. We have an all men's school which is located in the country. The student at St. Joe is not bothered by the normal distractions that are present at other schools. He should be the best in everything, whether it be academics, activities or sports. The St. Joe student has 24 hours a day to improve academically, physically and spiritually.

But the students have not taken advantage of all their opportunities. Too much is taken for granted. How many of the students go to Mass once or twice during the week? How many students know where the library is located, let alone use it. There just doesn't seem to be any vitality among the students. Perhaps in some cases the professors are at fault in making their courses dull or uninteresting; but the intellectually alive student can handle this problem. He, the good student, is not looking for excuses not to study, as quite a few of the other so called "students" are. He is looking for ways to get ahead and stay there.

Question: In your opinion will this attitude affect the student in later life?

Fr. Otte: Definitely. College degrees don't make success. In 1952, 50 per cent of college graduates were not making $5,000 a year. The reason for this is that these men were not students in college. This is what I am afraid is going to happen to our current students. Some students in four years have not accomplished on thing. Someone has to awaken them to the fact that life is a hard pull.

Question: How do you think that this situation can be corrected?

Fr. Otte: In recent years the influence of the "Pinheads" has been felt on the St. Joe campus. (Pinhead is Fr. Otte's term for the loudmouths, comic book readers, and general all-around slackers.) These Pinheads must be defeated. There is need for a counter-move. The intellectually alert student must come to the front and show some initiative. We must express himself. Then and only then can we destroy the current pattern of laziness.

At St. Joe you have a chance to develop a real spiritual substance to life along with academic success. Together they should mold some intellectual leaders. Instead you have a few leading the way and others, who could be capable leaders and officers, let these "Pinheads" run the show.

As you can see there must be a counter-move. There is need of good ideas. It is not who gets the idea but who uses it that is important. If the students can become intellectually alert everything would fall into pattern.

I would like to see that old drive and leadership return. Have the intellectually alive ban together and lead once again. If more students would take interest in various clubs on campus, such as the Commerce club, and try to use his classroom knowledge to advantage instead of letting it lie dormant, there might be a few more leaders around. Here is where the student finds a chance to express himself.

Most of the St. Joe students are wasting time and money. They are putting in four years of time without anything except a piece of paper called a degree.

Major Programs of Study

Semester I, 1958-59

	13	14	15	16	Sp	Total	% of Student Body
Accounting	62	47	27	16	1	153	15.36
Agriculture	8	1	0	0	0	9	0.90
Biology	18	12	6	4	0	40	4.01
Biol-Chem	16	5	4	5	0	30	3.01
Bus. Ad.	(80)	(44)	(41)	(44)	(0)	(209)	(20.98)
Gen. Bus.	70	32	20	24	0	146	14.65
Marketing	10	12	21	20	0	63	6.32
Chemistry	25	4	2	3	0	34	3.41
Economics	7	15	23	7	0	52	5.22
Education	4	6	1	6	3	20	2.00
Engineering:	(80)	(33)	(18)	(0)	(0)	(131)	(13.15)
Aeron.	7	2	3	0	0	12	1.20
Chemical	9	6	1	0	0	16	1.60
Civil	17	4	3	0	0	24	2.40
Electrical	25	9	8	0	0	42	4.21
Fire Prot.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0.00
Food	0	0	0	0	0	0	0.00
Industrial	0	1	1	0	0	2	0.20
Mechanical	20	10	0	0	0	30	3.01
Metallurgical	2	1	2	0	0	5	0.50
English	11	5	5	1	0	22	2.20

(Continued in Columns 4 & 5)

SJ Students To Attend NFCCS Meet

Six St. Joe students are planning to attend a meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students at St. Francis college in Fort Wayne this Saturday, Oct. 25.

Making the trip are John Norris, Ronald Koron, Jim Klear, Bill Perry, Pat Bartholomy and Jerry Mauch. These students will act as observers for St. Joe and are to report their findings as to the value of joining this organization to the Student Council at its next meeting.

Mayor of Fort Wayne Speaks

The day-long conference will consist in six separate sessions at which experienced people will speak on subjects related to their own field.

Beginning at 1:00, the program will be keynoted by Robert E. Meyers, Mayor of Fort Wayne. Some of the speakers and their topics are the 'Spiritual Challenge of Our Time' by Eva Fleischner of the liturgy and catechetics department at Grailville; 'Communication for Profit' by Paul E. Hensel, vice-prseident of Central Soya Company, Inc.; 'Ethical Problems of Journalism' by the Rev. Joseph R. Crowley, editor of Our Sunday Visitor, Clifford B. Ward, managing editor of the Fort Wayne News Sentinel, and Donnelly P. McDonald, Jr., joint representative of the Indiana state legislature.

Catholic College Group

All schools in the Fort Wayne area have been invited to attend this meeting. Some of the others which are expected to be present besides St. Joseph's and St. Francis are Marian College; St. Mary-of-the-Lake; St. Mary-of-the-Woods; St. Thomas Aquinas; Nazereth College; Indiana Technical College; Tri-State College; Fort Wayne St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing; and the Fort Wayne Art School.

NFCCS is a body of unified Catholic college students throughout the nation and is affiliated with the Pax Romana, an international body which meets in Rome once a year.

Its aim is to give college students an opportunity to express their views as a body on controversial issues of campus life, social life, and both national and international affairs. After attending these meetings, students are encouraged to bring the ideas and viewpoints expressed back to their own campuses for discussion and possible use.

FSEE Test . . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Region, Federal Bldg., Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Seniors should consider taking the FSEE now to be considered early next year for Federal employment. As recent graduates, seniors through their combined education and experience may qualify for the higher starting salary.

541 Job Opportunities

Holders of Bachelor's degrees will qualify immediately for GS-5 positions ($4,040.). Qualification for a GS-7 position ($4,980) is also possible with no additional qualifying experience. Applicants need only make a sufficiently high score on the written test, be in the upper quarter of their graduating class and have a B average or its equivalent for completed college work at the time of applications.

Mr. Scharf has a listing of the 541 administrative, managerial, professional and technical positions expected to be filled from the FSEE between now and next August. It is available for inspection in the placement office.

See Mr. Scharf

The FSEE is not the only entrance examination for college students, according to Mr. Scharf. Engineers, physicists, chemists, accountants and certain other technical and professional positions are filled by entrance examinations.

Collegeville Confidential

by Tim J. Sullivan, Jr.

Now, we all know that there is an eternal struggle among the student body of St. Joe as to who has the hardest courses, the toughest Profs, and the most assignments, and we all know that on one side of this argument are the various Scientific course-takers. and on the other side the various Liberal Arts course-takers. And, we all know that the first group mentioned, the Scientists, maintain that they are so swamped with work that they have no time for doing various things, such as writing Dear-John-Type-letters.

Therefore, in the interest of those poor engineers, biologists, chemists, and also, in the interest of those of you who have no talent (O.K., guts) for such things, here is a sample form of such a letter. With certain pertinent modifications, it will be apropos in any and all situations.

Dear (here insert name of girl.)

Be it known to you that from this day, (Here insert proper date), I have done the following to sever all ties, both physical and spiritual, which we may once have possessed. (Be careful here, especially if you are a clod, and the girl knows it. That language is a little flowery for scientists. Boy, are you guys dumb.)

In regard to your picture: I have removed the Vigil Lights from around it, and turned off the three spot lights illuminating it. My roommate was getting awfully tired of them anyhow, seeing as they kept him from sleeping at night. Also, I removed the picture from the velvet pillow it was resting on, and took the lace cover from the solid silver table, which we are now using as sort of a bar. (Perhaps your table was gold, or you don't drink, an unlikely possibility, if we ever heard one. If so, change the sentence accordingly. Don't be dumb all your life.)

In regard to the socks and sweater you knitted me: It should interest you to know that there were exactly 37 and one half yards of yarn in the socks and 103 yards of yarn in the sweater. Said yarn is now being used to trace paths about campus, while the Administration is installing Street Lights, and, I must say that this function is more useful than that hideous sweater, or those awful socks.

In regard to your many letters: You sent me two kinds of letters: The first type you were polite enough to write on one side of the paper only, the other you were a real clod, and wrote on both sides. I'm using the first type as scratch paper. The second type, I wrapped in black ribbon and threw into the last pep rally bonfire. The pink ribbon which I used to wrap the letters before "the end" went also, along with about 3,000 green beanies.

In regard to the record of "Our Song": Although the record was quite worn from repeated playings, I would estimate 200 per day, it still had a few spins left in it. However, none of the guys wanted it, they all said they were tired of it. One individual even went so far as to throw me bodily out of his room. I can't understand why. Whatever the case, we melted it down, and made a really excellent Frisbee out of it. We play with it often, but the usual game has been somewhat modified. Now everyone curses under his breath, and throws it at my head. Strange, but I play just the same.

In regard to the various pieces of jewelry which you gave me: This section is going to be somewhat long, out of necessity. I shall take every piece, piece by piece.

The first item on the agenda is that Friendship Ring you gave me at "the beginning." I must confess that I lost mine. Well, not exactly lost it, more like it was taken away. About a month after I received it, my finger began to turn black, and pains began shooting up my arm, making it difficult to write. I can vaguely recall a hurried trip somewhere in an ambulance, and waking up in the morning with no finger. "Gangrene," the doctor said. When I asked him what he had done with the ring, he was very evasive, so I kept asking him. He finally became quite angry, and shouted "I threw it in the Iroquois!", and stalked off, muttering something about crazy college kids. Although I cut my classes for two days, and searched the bottom of the river, I never found the ring. I almost had it once, but some darn fool pulled me out and started to give me artificial respiration. So, I gave up, mainly because they locked me up in this little room, and talked to me for a week or so, until I promised to give up.

The second article on the list is that Photo-Ident you gave me with your picture inside. I decided to get rid of it by giving it away, so I gave it to one of those cute little urchins that roam the streets of Rensselaer, digging in garbage cans of the palatial mansions which predominate in town, and twirling Hula-Hoops. Unfortunately, this story has an unhappy ending. The child seemed delighted with the shiny silver object, and scampered down the street, I suppose to trade it for some food. Unfortunately, he opened it and looked at your picture, whereupon he threw the bracelet into the air, and ran screaming into the street, right under the wheels of a truck. I never did see the bracelet again, because I quietly melted into the crowd on the sidewalk, fearing trouble.

That about finishes it, except for that solid gold watch chain you gave me for my birthday two years ago. I took it into a Pawnshop, where the Pawnbroker tried to tell me that it wasn't real gold. I argued with him and got nowhere. My broken arm is healing nicely, and the man should be out of jail in a week or so.

I really don't mind writing this letter, mainly because I felt somewhat guilty, marrying into the oil business anyhow. Although you weren't the prettiest girl I ever saw, it was those small intangible things that you had that I liked, like those stocks and bonds, the cars, and, as I alluded to above, your old man's oil business.

There, that should sever all ties, completely and irrevocably. Write when you find time, and remember,

. . . No man is poor as long as he can still laugh . . .

Major Programs of Study . . . .

(Continued from Columns 1 & 2)

Eng-Journ	3	2	2	2	0	9	0.90
Geology	11	14	6	20	1	52	5.22
History	12	17	10	24	0	63	6.32
Mathematics	10	4	7	6	0	27	2.71
Math-Physics	8	4	2	2	0	16	1.60
Philosophy	4	7	2	2	0	15	1.50
Phy. Ed.	7	4	6	2	0	19	1.90
Politics	14	5	2	0	0	21	2.10
Pre-Theology	23	30	2	0	0	55	5.52
Sociology	0	3	6	2	0	11	1.10
General	3	1	0	0	4	8	0.80
Total	406	263	172	146	9	996

Richard Dyer-Bennet chats with Mr. Kilmer, director of the St. Joe concert series. Dyer-Bennet made a successful appearance at St. Joe.

Richard Dyer-Bennet Sings 3 Encores at Collegeville

by Jerry Bosch

Close to 350 apparent lovers of folk music gathered in St. Joseph's auditorium Thursday evening, Oct. 16 for the second concert in less than a year by Richard Dyer-Bennet, renowned folk singer and balladeer.

"I was flattered to be asked back after such a short interval," Mr. Dyer-Bennet stated. On his previous visit he expressed his fondness of college audiences and he reiterated this feeling once again, calling St. Joe's "one of the best college audiences in the country."

Sings "Green Sleeves"

The touring troubadour opened his program with the "oldest English song in his repertoire," a ballad from 1415 which tells of Henry V's victory over the French at Agincourt.

Other songs from the British Isles, which constituted the first third of the program, were the haunting Elizabethan melody. "Green Sleeves," and a whimsical pirate tale, "The Ballad of Henry Martin."

American Tunes Last

Next Mr. Dyer-Bennet turned to some European folk songs and ballads, singing three in the original French, German and Swedish. This segment closed with "Go Home to Your Man," a piece about an Austrian lady and her dying husband.

In the final portion of the program the English-born folk singer treated the audience to such American folk tunes and ballads as "Erie Canal," "When I Was Single" and one of the ballads from the "Song My Mother Never Taught Me," an album of Caribbean folklore.

Three-in-One Encore

This last piece concluded the

(Continued in Column 3)

Dyer-Bennet . . . .

(Continued from Column 2)

regular program, but the celebrated Mr. Dyer-Bennet did three consecutive encores, saying rather facetiously but yet humbly, "I'll sing my three encores now and then I won't have to walk back and forth from behind that curtain."

For his three-in-one encore he sang three numbers which were "favorites" of those who attended last January's concert. These were Banjo Patterson's famous "Waltzing Matilda," the World War I and II marching song of the Australian soldiers; the popular eighteenth century ditty, "The Ballad of the Vicar of Bray"; and finally the Scottish nonsense song which tells the "Story of Three Crows."

Knows About 600 Songs

In his second Collegeville appearance Mr. Dyer-Bennet seemed just as much at home as he did in the first. Blending a remarkable vocal range with adept accompaniment on the guitar and occasional change-of-pace whistling, he gave an almost flawless performance.

Does he have any particular favorite among the some 600 songs he knows or does he enjoy the songs of one country more than another? "Perhaps I may be a little prejudiced because I am from England," says Mr. Dyer-Bennet, "but truthfully, I like any song I am familiar with."

Between The Lines

by Greg Mahoney

Aside from following the dealings of the Maverick brothers and eating cold cuts for supper, taking in the campus movie has become the favorite Collegeville Sunday-night diversion.

There seems to be little doubt that the slash in admission price, resulting from the new system of each student paying a movie fee of $1.65 at the beginning of the semester, has been the biggest factor in luring more Joemen to the auditorium. What sane college man would pass up a bargain, be it a second-hand copy of a semester exam at half-price, or a comfortably low movie admission price? Money is an item conspicuous by its absence in many pockets-about-campus, and trying to scrape up 50 cents on a weekend for a movie is the final touch of sadism. Under this new system, however, even the most abject pauper can see a movie at St. Joe (provided he paid his original $1.65.)

Thus far, St. Joe movie audiences have shown commendable sophistication and considerate concentration in their viewing habits. Hushed audiences and tensed emotions are becoming commonplace in the auditorium. For example, when one of Alfred Hitchcock's classic double-reverses and fake-play movies was shown here recently, it was so quiet in the auditorium, that you could've heard a church key drop.

It's not often that one gets to see Kim Novak fall out of a tower twice in one movie. The Twin Towers should be that lucky.

The possibilities that these weekend movies offer for student exploitation are unlimited. The engineering students could be told to observe the movie's emphasis on lines and curves, see... Students could concentrate on the cat-and-canary relationship in the cartoons, etc.

There is also a wide field for the "hidden persuader" technique here. Split-second advertising could be flashed across the screen, putting an unconscious message in the mind of the audience. From the academic dean could come such hidden advertising as "Study, study, study. Avoid the rush at mid-term." Or in a commercial vein could come messages like, "Buy your hula hoops at Penney's," or "Seniors of Bennett, get your flashlights at the bookstore now!"

Whatever use they're put to, no one can deny that the weekend movies are a better and less expensive diversion than they were last year.

Coming Events

Friday, Oct. 24, 1958
Pep Rally — 7:30 p.m. — West of fieldhouse

Saturday, Oct. 25, 1958
St. Joe vs. Valpo — Valpo
Student Trip
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Sunday, Oct. 26, 1958
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Monday, Oct. 27, 1958
Professor Neusse Lecture — 8:00 p.m.
"Social Mobility and Religion in the United States" — Merlini hall

Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1958
Book of the Month Discussion

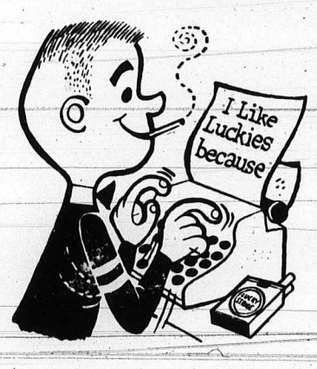
Friday, Oct. 31, 1958
Pep Rally — 7:30 p.m. — West of fieldhouse
Informal Dance — 9:00 p.m. — Raleigh hall
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Saturday, Nov. 1, 1958
Ball State vs. St. Joe — 1:30 p.m.
Tower Dance — 8:30 p.m. — Raleigh hall
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Sunday, Nov. 2, 1958
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

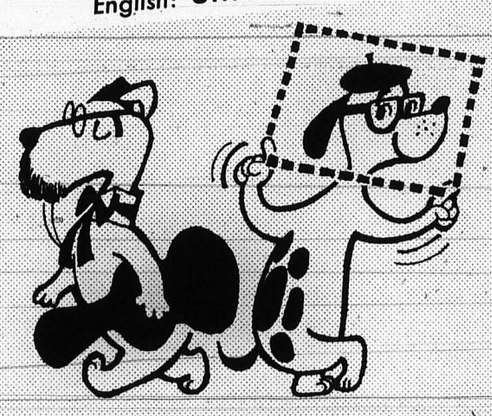
THiNKLiSH

ENGLISH: endorsement of Lucky Strike cigarettes



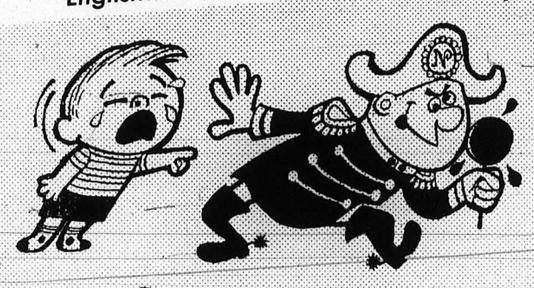
THINKLISH TRANSLATION: Other brands of cigarettes burn (with envy) over the matchless taste of a Lucky Strike. Lucky's taste is honest taste—the rich, full taste of fine tobacco. So any endorsement of Luckies is bound to be a Tastimonial. Mmm!

English: UNHIP DOG



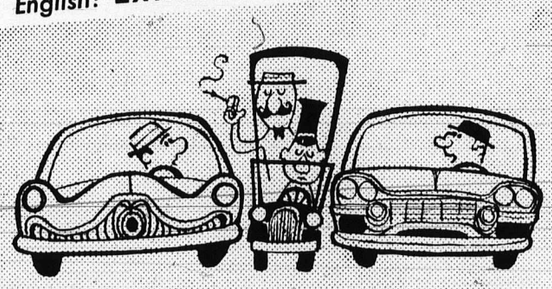
Thinklish: SQUAREDALE

English: SCREWBALL BULLY



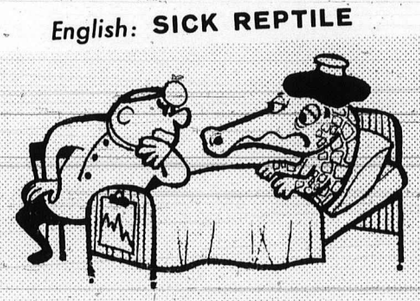
Thinklish: MEANIAC

English: EXTREMELY NARROW CAR



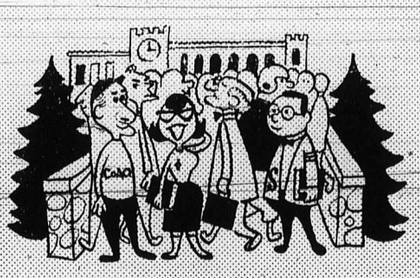
Thinklish: SLIMOUSINE

English: SICK REPTILE



Thinklish: ILLIGATOR

English: CROWDED COLLEGE GROUNDS



Thinklish: CRAMPUS

SPEAK THINKLISH!

Put in a good word and MAKE $25!

Here's the easiest way yet to make money! Just put two words together to form a new one. Example: slob + lobster=SLOBSTER. (English trans: shellfish with bad manners.) We'll pay $25 each for the hundreds of Thinklish words judged best—and we'll feature many in our college ads. Send your Thinklish words (with translations) to Lucky Strike, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Enclose name, address, college or university and class.

Get the genuine article

Get the honest taste of a LUCKY STRIKE

Product of The American Tobacco Company — "Tobacco is our middle name"

©A.T.Co.

Richard Dyer-Bennet chats with Mr. Kilmer, director of the St. Joe concert series. Dyer-Bennet made a successful appearance at St. Joe.

Richard Dyer-Bennet Sings 3 Encores at Collegeville

by Jerry Bosch

Close to 350 apparent lovers of folk music gathered in St. Joseph's auditorium Thursday evening, Oct. 16 for the second concert in less than a year by Richard Dyer-Bennet, renowned folk singer and balladeer.

"I was flattered to be asked back after such a short interval," Mr. Dyer-Bennet stated. On his previous visit he expressed his fondness of college audiences and he reiterated this feeling once again, calling St. Joe's "one of the best college audiences in the country."

Sings "Green Sleeves"

The touring troubadour opened his program with the "oldest English song in his repertoire," a ballad from 1415 which tells of Henry V's victory over the French at Agincourt.

Other songs from the British Isles, which constituted the first third of the program, were the haunting Elizabethan melody. "Green Sleeves," and a whimsical pirate tale, "The Ballad of Henry Martin."

American Tunes Last

Next Mr. Dyer-Bennet turned to some European folk songs and ballads, singing three in the original French, German and Swedish. This segment closed with "Go Home to Your Man," a piece about an Austrian lady and her dying husband.

In the final portion of the program the English-born folk singer treated the audience to such American folk tunes and ballads as "Erie Canal," "When I Was Single" and one of the ballads from the "Song My Mother Never Taught Me," an album of Caribbean folklore.

Three-in-One Encore

This last piece concluded the

(Continued in Column 3)

Dyer-Bennet . . . . .

(Continued from Column 2)

regular program, but the celebrated Mr. Dyer-Bennet did three consecutive encores, saying rather facetiously but yet humbly, "I'll sing my three encores now and then I won't have to walk back and forth from behind that curtain."

For his three-in-one encore he sang three numbers which were "favorites" of those who attended last January's concert. These were Banjo Patterson's famous "Waltzing Matilda," the World War I and II marching song of the Australian soldiers; the popular eighteenth century ditty, "The Ballad of the Vicar of Bray"; and finally the Scottish nonsense song which tells the "Story of Three Crows."

Knows About 600 Songs

In his second Collegeville appearance Mr. Dyer-Bennet seemed just as much at home as he did in the first. Blending a remarkable vocal range with adept accompaniment on the guitar and occasional change-of-pace whistling, he gave an almost flawless performance.

Does he have any particular favorite among the some 600 songs he knows or does he enjoy the songs of one country more than another? "Perhaps I may be a little prejudiced because I am from England," says Mr. Dyer-Bennet, "but truthfully, I like any song I am familiar with."

Between The Lines

by Greg Mahoney

Aside from following the dealings of the Maverick brothers and eating cold cuts for supper, taking in the campus movie has become the favorite Collegeville Sunday-night diversion.

There seems to be little doubt that the slash in admission price, resulting from the new system of each student paying a movie fee of $1.65 at the beginning of the semester, has been the biggest factor in luring more femmen to the auditorium. What sane college man would pass up a bargain, be it a second-hand copy of a semester exam at half-price, or a comfortably low movie admission price? Money is an item conspicuous by its absence in many pockets-about-campus, and trying to scrape up 50 cents on a weekend for a movie is the final touch of sadism. Under this new system, however, even the most abject pauper can see a movie at St. Joe (provided he paid his original $1.65.)

Thus far, St. Joe movie audiences have shown commendable sophistication and considerate concentration in their viewing habits. Hushed audiences and tensed emotions are becoming commonplace in the auditorium. For example, when one of Alfred Hitchcock's classic double-reverses and fake-play movies was shown here recently, it was so quiet in the auditorium, that you could've heard a church key drop.

It's not often that one gets to see Kim Novak fall out of a tower twice in one movie. The Twin Towers should be that lucky.

The possibilities that these weekend movies offer for student exploitation are unlimited. The engineering students could be told to observe the movie's emphasis on lines and curves, sociology students could concentrate on the cat-and-canary relationship in the cartoons, etc.

There is also a wide field for the "hidden persuader" technique here. Split-second advertising could be flashed across the screen, putting an unconscious message in the mind of the audience. From the academic dean could come such hidden advertising as "Study, study, study. Avoid the rush at mid-term." Or in a commercial vein could come messages like, "Buy your hula hoops at Penney's," or "Seniors of Bennett, get your flashlights at the bookstore now!"

Whatever use they're put to, no one can deny that the weekend movies are a better and less expensive diversion than they were last year.

Coming Events

Friday, Oct. 24, 1958
Pep Rally — 7:30 p.m. — West of fieldhouse

Saturday, Oct. 25, 1958
St. Joe vs. Valpo — Valpo
Student Trip
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Sunday, Oct. 26, 1958
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Monday, Oct. 27, 1958
Professor Neusse Lecture — 8:00 p.m.
"Social Mobility and Religion in the United States" — Merlini hall

Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1958
Book of the Month Discussion

Friday, Oct. 31, 1958
Pep Rally — 7:30 p.m. — West of fieldhouse
Informal Dance — 9:00 p.m. — Raleigh hall
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

Saturday, Nov. 1, 1958
Ball State vs. St. Joe — 1:30 p.m.
Tower Dance — 8:30 p.m. — Raleigh hall
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

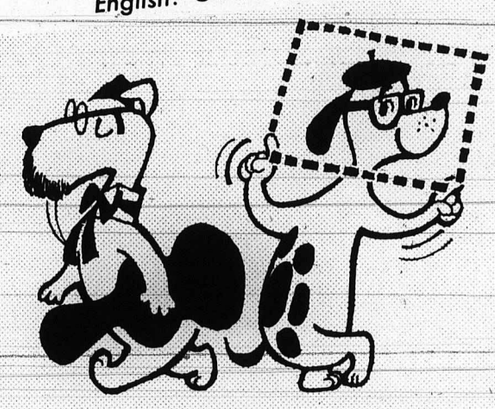
Sunday, Nov. 2, 1958
Movie — 10:00 p.m. — Auditorium

THiNKLiSH

ENGLISH: endorsement of Lucky Strike cigarettes

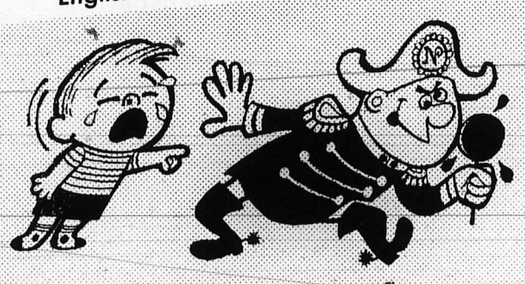
THINKLISH TRANSLATION: Other brands of cigarettes burn (with envy) over the matchless taste of a Lucky Strike. Lucky's taste is honest taste—the rich, full taste of fine tobacco. So any endorsement of Luckies is bound to be a Tastimonial. Mmm!

English: UNHIP DOG



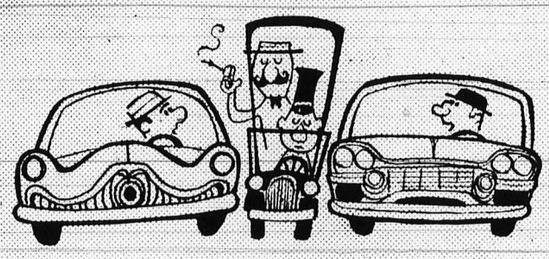
Thinklish: SQUAREDALE

English: SCREWBALL BULLY



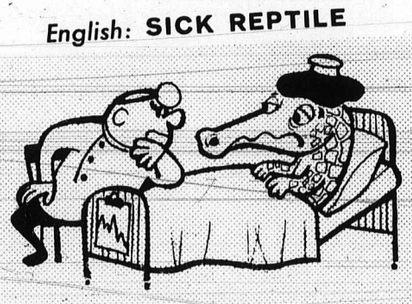
Thinklish: MEANIAC

English: EXTREMELY NARROW CAR



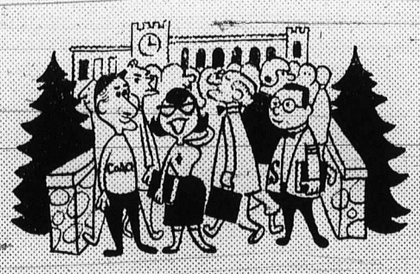
Thinklish: SLIMOUSINE

English: SICK REPTILE

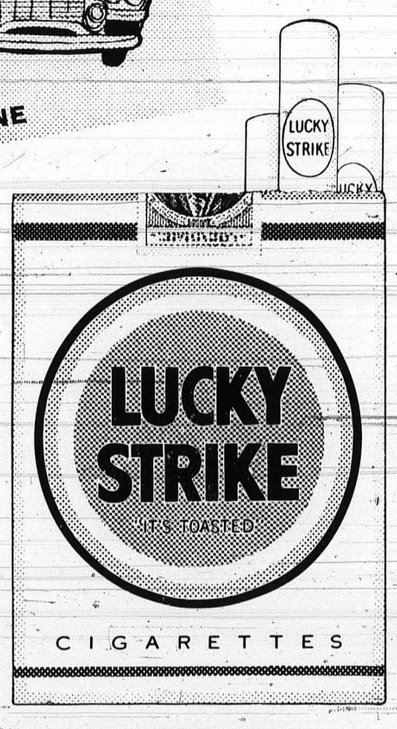


Thinklish: ILLIGATOR

English: CROWDED COLLEGE GROUNDS



Thinklish: CRAMPUS



SPEAK THINKLISH!

Put in a good word and MAKE $25!

Here's the easiest way yet to make money! Just put two words together to form a new one. Example: slob + lobster=SLOBSTER. (English trans: shellfish with bad manners.) We'll pay $25 each for the hundreds of Thinklish words judged best—and we'll feature many in our college ads. Send your Thinklish words (with translations) to Lucky Strike, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Enclose name, address, college or university and class.

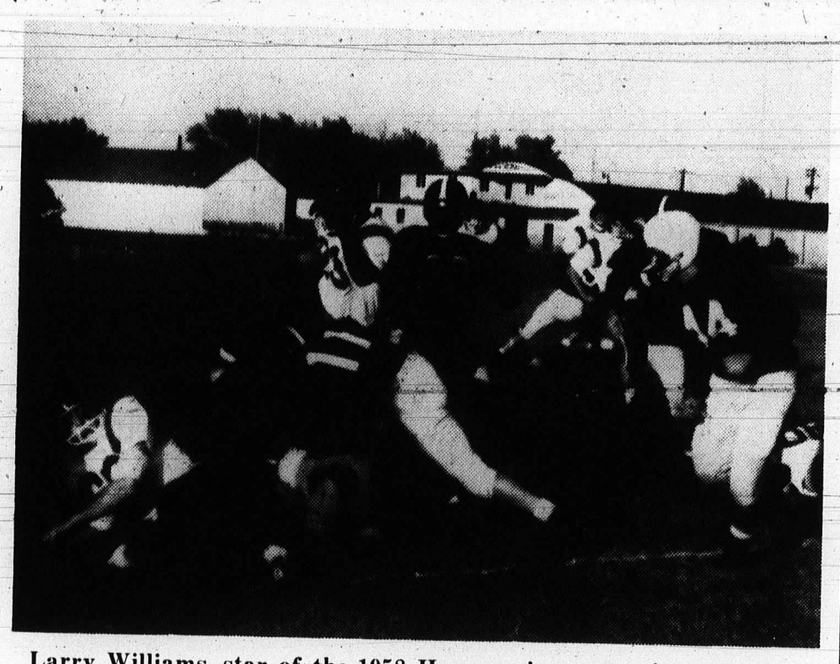
Get the genuine article

Get the honest taste of a LUCKY STRIKE

Product of The American Tobacco Company — "Tobacco is our middle name"

© A. T. Co.

Galimore, Take Note



Larry Williams, star of the 1958 Homecoming game, is stopped by a Sycamore after a short gain. Williams led the Puma attack, carrying the ball 11 times for 197 yards and an 11.9 average.

Puma Football Statistics

(Complete thru five games)

Individual Rushing

Player	Att.	Yds.	Lost	Net Yds.	Avg.
Williams	50	375	5	370	7.4
DiBuono	47	205	8	197	4.4
Murphy	52	184	1	183	3.5
Connelly	26	160	13	147	5.7
Klein	47	183	60	123	2.6
Deem	33	128	14	114	3.5
Wilmore	4	31	0	31	7.8
Spielman	24	53	31	22	0.9
Zolecki	3	9	0	9	3.3
Gardner	3	11	8	3	1.0
McGovern	4	6	16	—10	—
*Bad Pass	1	0	22	—22	—
St. Joe Totals	304	1345	178	1167	3.84
Opp. Totals	202	758	164	594	2.94

Individual Passing

Player	Att.	Comp.	Had Int.	Yds.	TD	% Comp.
Klein	18	5	1	58	1	27.8
McGovern	18	4	1	40	1	50.0
Spielman	8	4	1	26	0	50.0
Murphy	1	1	0	32	0	100.0
Connelly	1	0	1	—	0	—
Gardner	4	1	0	8	0	25.0
St. Joe Totals	40	15	4	164	2	37.5
Opp. Totals	68	28	10	366	3	41.2

Individual Pass Receiving

Player	No. Ct.	Yds.	TD	Avg. Gain
Regner	5	53	1	10.6
DiBuono	2	34	0	17.0
Connelly	2	44	1	22.0
Williams	3	11	0	3.7
Klein	1	10	0	10.0
Deem	1	4	0	4.0
Beran	1	8	0	8.0
Totals	15	164	2	10.9

Intramurals

by Mike Goldrick

The IM football season has hit mid-season and most of the league races have settled down. The Frosh league has narrowed down to four teams. Where once seven teams were tide for first place now only two remain tied. The Merlini Puma-Kittens and the E. Seifert Hoosiers have taken control of the top spot. The Puma-Kittens have won six straight, since an opening day defeat at the hands of the Drexel Bums.

They have edged the Hoosiers 13-9, tipped the Crusaders 6-0, smeared the Playboys 49-0, trounced the Dukes 32-0, drubbed the Seconds 33-6, and bumped the Counts 26-12. The Hoosiers after losing to the Puma-Kittens have won four straight. They dropped the Crusaders and the Dukes by identical 19-6 scores, smashed the Playboys 36-14, and beat the Seconds 12-0. Top performer in the frosh league for the last two weeks is Len Bubala with 50 points in four games.

In the Upperclass league the 7-7's are a game in front of the Overtakers, and a game and a half over the Horsemen. The 7-7's ran their string to 18 straight wins dating back to last year, by beating the Lollys 37-0, the Guzzlers 20-6 and the Brown Bears 45-0. Meanwhile, the previously undefeated Horsemen dropped two. The Overtakers after an early loss to the Slickers have come back to win four in a row, including a 7-2 victory over the Horsemen. The league title will be decided next week when the 7-7's play the Overtakers and the Horsemen consecutively.

In IM tennis, Jim Anderson, a freshman plays Dave Singleton, a freshman in the Championship match. Also the football events day is Oct. 28, from 3-5:30 p.m. Anyone is invited to enter. It consists of four events; 50 yard dash, football pass for distance, football kick for distance, and a 50 yard obstacle run. Points will be given for each event, and the most total points wins.

Standings:

Upper Class League	W	L	Frosh League	W	L
Bennett 7-7's	6	0	Merlini Puma-Kittens	6	1
Noll Overtakers	5	1	E. Seifert Hoosiers	6	1
Halas Horsemen	5	2	W. Seifert Knights	4	2
Bennett Slickers	4	2	Drexel Bums	4	2
Gallagher Guzzlers	4	2	Drexel Counts	3	3
Washburn Lovers	3	3	Merlini Playboys	3	3
Noll Dozers	1	4	Gaspar Stranglers	3	3
Halas Brown Bears	1	4	Merlini Crusaders	2	4
Gallagher Lollys	0	5	W. Seifert Dukes	1	5
Halas Black Bears	0	6	E. Seifert Seconds	0	6

Pumas To Face "Healthy" Valpo Saturday; Ball State Here Nov. 1

by Jim Quinn

St. Joseph's Pumas will be out for their third ICC win when they travel to Valparaiso to take on Coach Emory Bauer's Crusaders, Saturday, Oct. 25, a week before the Cardinals of Ball State invade Collegeville.

Valpo will be relying on 13 lettermen in their efforts to stop the victory hungry Pumas. Max Roegge, Crusader captain and last year's starting center, will again anchor the middle of the Crusader forward wall.

Soph Calls Valpo Signals

Helping Roegge in the line are guards Jim Werre, a good downfield blocker, and letter winner Joe Sever. At the tackles are 210-pound Rich Gozon and letterman Bob Pace. Ray Zubeck, a converted guard, and either Gene West or John Swanson will be the Valpo ends.

Ken Young, a 6-3 200-pound spohomore, will call the signals in front of fullback Don Martis, a 205-pound speedster, and Halfbacks John Peterson and John Williams.

No Game Last Year

Other Crusaders who will see action against the Joemen will be Noel Schlegelmilch, understudy to Young at quarterback, halfback Bob Green and defensive back Larry Goeglein.

The Crusaders dropped a 35-0 decision to the Pumas in their last meeting with St. Joe in 1956 at Valparaiso. The two teams did not play last year when Valpo was forced to cancel the game because of a flu epidemic.

Ball State Here Next

It will be interesting to see who the celebrated Valpo victory bell rings for: the Crusaders or the PUMAS!

Ball State will be seeking to avenge a 55-7 troucing by the Pumas last season at Muncie when they come to Collegeville, Saturday, Nov. 1.

Line Has Experience

Coach Jim Freeman will be counting on junior quarterback Ed Corazzi, a starter last year, and senior Ed Brown, an all-conference halfback, to lead the attack.

Fullbacks Dave Hooten and Rodney Fort and halfback Larry Eltzroth will also see action. In the middle of the line Freeman has seniors Bob Dooley, John Livergood, Terry Heater, Don Rush and junior Bob Million.

Cardinals May Stop Butler

At ends the Cardinals will use lettermen Nat Pittman and Norman Holmes with help from Jim Hart and Roger Zabek. Sixteen members of last year's freshman team have moved up to the Varsity for the Ball Staters.

The Cardinals currently possess a 2-1 record in ICC competition and loom as one of few remaining threats to Butler's drive to displace St. Joseph's Pumas as ICC champions for 1958.

SJ Crushes State 44-0 For Alumni

The alumni of St. Joseph's college, returning to the campus on Saturday, Oct. 18 for the 1958 Homecoming, received a rousing welcome when the Pumas, paced by sophomore halfback Larry Williams, crushed Indiana State 44-0.

The Joemen enjoyed their best day of the season, scoring in every period as they piled up 25 first downs and 510 yards, all but eight on the ground. Williams led the Puma backs with 197 yards in 11 cafries, an 11.9 average.

Williams Gets 3 TD's

St. Joe's first score came the first time they had their hands on the ball with a 66 yard drive in 11 plays, with Williams going the final 10. End Ed Labbe's placement failed.

The Pumas scored again the next time they got the ball, traveling 55 yards in eight plays with Williams going over for the tally on a 20 yard scamper. Quarterback Les Klein's pass to Williams for the extra points was unsuccessful.

Deem Scores

The second team took over for the third and final score of the half on another 55 yard march, this time in 12 plays with DiBuono going over from the four. The conversion pass was good and the Pumas held a 20-0 lead at the half.

Sparked by William's 38 yard jaunt, the Pumas scored the first time they had their hands on the ball in the second half when they covered 64 yards in four plays with Tom Deem plunging the final five yards. Williams ran for the two-pointer.

Williams Runs For 8-Pointer

The second team took over for the next one and went 38 yards in seven plays with DiBuono smashing over from the one for his second tally of the game. George Connelly added the two extra points on a run.

The final drive in the last quarter was maneuvered by the first team who went 55 yards with Williams collecting eight points on a 19 yard touchdown run and the two point conversion.

Scoring:

Indiana State	0	0	0	0	— 0
St. Joseph's	6	14	16	8	—44

	SJ	ISTC
First downs	25	9
Yards rushing	502	39
Yards passing	8	144
Total yards	510	183
Passes attempted	9	19
Completed	1	10
Had intercepted	0	2
Punts	2	6
Average	26.5	29.8
Fumbles	1	3
Ball lost	1	2
Penalties	5	3
Yards lost	43	35

ICC Standings

	W	L	Pts.	Opp.
Butler	3	0	71	8
St. Joseph's	2	1	76	16
Ball St.	2	1	55	28
Evansville	2	1	62	49
Valparaiso	2	2	51	56
DePauw	1	3	30	113
Ind. St.	0	4	28	112

Results:

Oct. 11

Ball St.	35	Evansville	16
Valparaiso	37	DePauw	0
Butler	31	Ind. St.	8

Oct. 18

St. Joseph's	44	Ind. St.	0
Butler	34	Valparaiso	0
Ball. St.	20	DePauw	6

Varsity Views

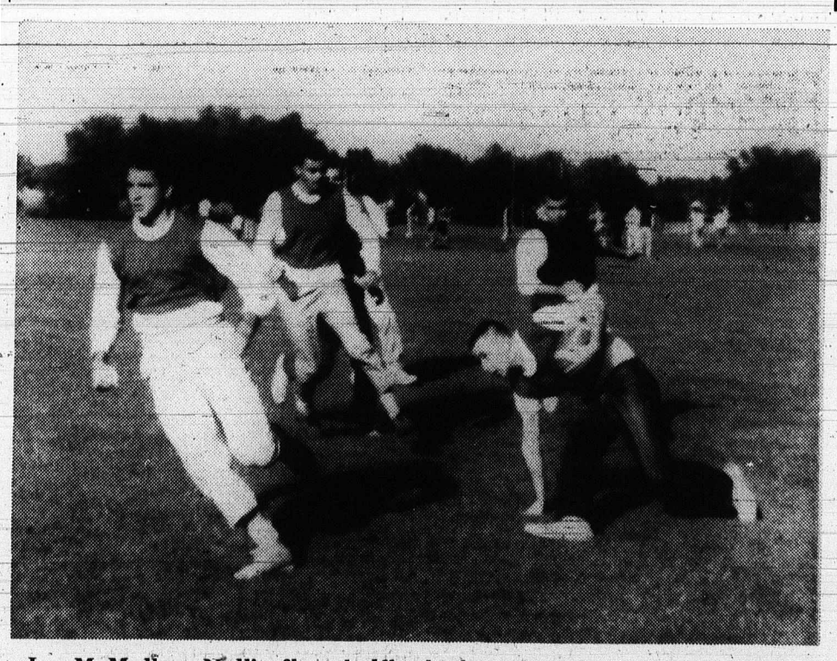
by Tom Donahue

The ICC race isn't over as yet. Butler still hasn't tasted defeat but we're not going to give them the nod this early in the season. They still have to face Valpo and Ball State and both of these clubs have improved over last year. Ball State has lost only one conference game in five starts, a six to nothing decision to Valpo two weeks ago. Valpo is currently third in the conference, behind Butler and our Pumas. We'll just have to hope that Ball State can get to Butler.

Valpo is really pointing for a win at Brown field Saturday when they host our Pumas. They have scouted every one of our games this year. At Saturday's Homecoming game with Indiana State one of their scouts remarked to a St. Joe junior, whose name we won't mention, "You people picked a rather weak opponent for your homecoming, didn't you?" To which the witty junior replied, "Yes, we did, but at least they showed up."

But seriously, every team in the conference is pointing for our Pumas and next Saturday is no exception. Valpo wants this one bad. They beat us 26-13 in 1955 and that was the last time they have tasted victory. It will be a long time before they taste it again, I'm sure, but you people will have to do your part. We have to have a tremendous turnout down there Saturday, it's a must. Two years ago we had a tremendous student turnout for the game played at Valpo and made their cheering section look sick. And the team made them look sicker by the score of 35-0. We don't want this year to be any exception, do we? Of course not. The team can feel it when they hear you guys yelling from the stands. With a good turn out and a lot of yelling on the part of our student body, I don't think Valpo will gain revenge this year. And if you miss this game you won't have another chance to "DING DONG" them and sing "The old Gray Mare ain't what she use to be" until January. That's half the fun of beating Valpo.

On The IM Front



Joe McMullen, Noll's fleet halfback, hugs the ground as he follows the interference of teammate Jim Moulthrop in an IM football game.

Club News

The Lake County club has completed arrangements for its annual Thanksgiving Holiday Dance which will be held on Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 26 at the St. John Panel Room in Whiting, Ind. The Cavaliers, a six piece combo, will provide the music.

A holiday party is tentatively set for Saturday, Nov. 29. The club is also making plans for a Christmas dance.

The Gun club's first rifle match of the year lured 14 marksmen to the shooting range west of Scharf house on Saturday, Oct. 11. When the gunsmoke had cleared Pete Warner and Floyd Winner emerged as the top sharpshooters.

Warner barely nosed out John Talbott in the first stage of the shooting, while Winner was victorious in the second stage with Talbot again runner-up.

The contestants used .22 calibre rifles, firing over the regulation NRA distance of 50 feet. According to Brother John Marling, moderator of the club, "all the scores were close."

The Engineering club will be the guests of the Standard Oil Refinery in Whiting, Ind., on Thursday, Oct. 23 when members of the club will make a tour of the refinery installations. The touring engineers will see the refinery in the morning, partake of a lunch on the company at noon and conclude the visit by going through the extensive research lab in the afternoon.

At the Oct. 14 meeting of the club Donald Wright, engineer of the Indiana Bell Telephone Co., lectured and showed movies about the building, installation and the workings of the DEW line, the Air Force's 3000-mile Arctic defense system.

Junior Bill McCrea is president of the club and Brother John Marling is moderator.

The Geology club has decided to have its annual field trip on Apr. 4, 5, 6 and 7. Co-chairmen Edward Graczyk and Paul Jurik announced that the field trip will survey areas in northwest Illinois and central Wisconsin. The club also plans to have a raffle sometime after Christmas to cover field trip, banquet and award expenses.

At its first monthly meeting on Oct. 2, the club appointed Mike Tierney and Matt Lynch co-chairmen of the Library Committee and James Haverty chairman of the Science Day Committee.

~~Cletus Habing is president of the~~ club with Tom Downes, vice president, Larry Herber, secretary, and James Hays, treasurer. Fr. Carl Nieset is moderator of the club.

The Don Bosco club will give a series of instruction classes in the manner of serving Mass. All those interested in learning and reviewing their serving techniques are urged to attend these classes. The classes will begin in the near future.

The club held its first meeting of the year on Monday, Oct. 13 and will have another one in a few weeks. Fr. Donald Ballman is the new moderator of the club, replacing Fr. John Klopke who is on a sabbatical leave.

The Camera club has moved into its new darkroom on the second floor of the Power house. Here the club has set up operations for developing many of the photographs which will be used in the campus publications.

The club has 25 members at present and anyone interested in joining the club can contact any of the members. Mr. Michael Davis is moderator of the club. Don Baumgart is president with Tony Tumbarello, vice-president, Mike Vallone, secretary, and Bob Klein, treasurer.

The Columbian Players, under their new director, Mr. Willard Walsh, began the year with the presentation of a short farce, "Pyremus and Thisby," for the parents on Sept. 24. Immediately after this presentation work was begun on the "Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

The club has acquired part of the old science dorm as a store room and work room. The task of renovating the stage has begun.

The officers elected for this year are: president, Joe Armon; vice-president, Jim Rogers; secretary, Joe Kannamueller; and treasurer, Dennis Fus.

The Commerce club will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Oct. 23 in Merlini Lounge at 7:30. Mr. Michaels, manager of the Penney Store in Rensselaer, will speak on retailing.

The club plans to attend the Chicago Federal Reserve on Monday, Dec. 8. Officers of the club are: Bill Riffe, president; Hank Stukenborg, treasurer; and Dave Kafka, secretary. There is no vice-president.

The club now has 60 members and anyone interested in joining the club should attend the next meeting.

The Motor City club will hold its Thanksgiving dance on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27. Frank Lucido and his combo will provide the music.

The club is also planning a number of other activities in an effort to add to its treasury. Frank Rastigue is president of the club and Fr. Ernest Lucas is moderator, not Fr. Kostka which Stuff reported last issue.

LONG'S
Walgreen Agency
Drug Store

SNO-BALL DRIV-IN
Hamburgers - Shakes
Malts - Pizza Pie
Phone 215

Rugby Sportswear
at MURRAY'S

Where QUALITY Tells
and
SERVICE Sells
20% Off
PEERLESS
Cleaners and Launderers

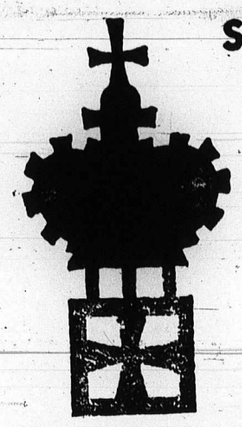
Colorado Credit Life
Proudly Announces
ROGER REDELMAN as Student Representative for exclusive Life Insurance program for College Seniors!
All Policies underwritten by RAY DAHL, Banker and Life Insurance Consultant - - -
See Roger for Details

Hall Mark Greeting Cards
Quality Film Finishing
Photo Supplies
Prescription Specialists
Lucas - Hansell Pharmacy
"West Side of Square"

KANNE'S
Restaurant and Tap Room
FINE FOOD AND BEVERAGES



SPRING SEMESTER 1959
IN VIENNA: $1195
Spend 5½ months in Europe. Attend the English-taught courses at the University of Vienna. Travel on 3 integrated Study Tours through 8 countries of Europe. Students live in Austrian homes. Price includes ocean transportation, room, board, tuition and travel. Group sails Feb. 10, 1959, on the Ryndam.
Application deadline: December 10, 1958
Write today for free brochure.
INSTITUTE OF EUROPEAN STUDIES
35 EAST WACKER DRIVE • CHICAGO 1, ILL.

Philco Transistor Portable Radio — $29.95
Phonograph Needles - Radio Tubes - Repairs
All labels of Records Hi-Fi Phonographs
Magnavox — Voice of Music — Motorola
Phone 58
THE HI-FI and RECORD SHOP
227 W. Washington Street

Now At FALVEY'S
Where Your Friends
Buy
Peters
WESBORO
"THE VERY NEWEST IN YOUNG MEN'S SHOES"
White Bucks
Dirty Bucks
Black and White
Saddles
$7.95
(Check That Price!)

Please Feel Free To Brouse Around At FALVEY'S
(Your Friends Do)
Falveys
Store For Men And Boys
"Where Your Friends Buy Their Clothes"
RENSSELAER, INDIANA

HOTEL
HOOSIER INN
Good Clean Beds
CLYDE BYERS
Ph. 41 On Route 114

For the
"Do It Yourselfer"
Use our Free tube-tester
THE HI-FI
RECORD SHOP

For the best in cleaning and laundering
Buy a punch card — Good for cleaning or laundry
Save 20 percent
Superior Drive in CLEANERS... LAUNDERERS...
RENSSELAER INDIANA

The Wolcott Theatre
WOLCOTT, INDIANA
Open Nights 7:00
Sundays 2:45 cont.

Fri.-Sat. Oct. 24, 25
Jerry Lewis - Marilyn Maxwell
ROCKABYE BABY
— Technicolor —

Sun-Mon-Tues Oct. 26, 27, 28
Aldo Ray - Cliff Robertson
THE NAKED AND THE DEAD
— Technicolor —

Thur-Fri-Sat Oct. 30-31, Nov. 1
Kirk Douglas - Tony Curtis
THE VIKINGS
— Technicolor —

Sun-Mon-Tues - Nov. 2, 3, 4
Cary Grant - Ingrid Bergman
INDISCREET
— Technicolor —